Wellbeing News

Wellbeing During the Holidays

During the holiday period make sure you get outside to experience the magic!

Thousands of studies have been carried out on the benefits of being in touch with nature; from reducing depression and anxiety to lowering blood pressure. It can even help with ADHD and autism in children.

You don't need mountains or woods to reap the benefits of the great outdoors. Find parks, green spaces or even your garden, throw on a hat and sunscreen and encourage outdoor exercise and play!

Top Tip: Go for long walks with the family, a friend, your dog or simply on your own. Soak up the beauty of nature and notice how much more calm you feel.

The Wellbeing team wish everyone a safe and happy holiday break. We look forward to seeing you all in 2023.
